"McCLOUD--Died in Berkeley, Aug. 25, Wayne McCLOUD, a native of California, aged 26 years. [Wayne McCLOUD's Death -- from the San Francisco 'Chronicle' of Wednesday -- In a fit of temporary insanity, attributed to overwork, Wayne McCLOUD shot himself through the head at Berkeley last evening on his wedding night. The tragedy took place while he was walking with his fiancée, Miss Margaret MATTHEW, from the 7 o'clock train to her home, 2009 Lincoln street, from which he was to return her husband. The young people had been shopping in San Francisco all day...[long story]...McCLOUD had been until recently a member of the editorial staff of the 'Examiner.' ...6 weeks ago he was granted a vacation and lived for a month in the country, trying to recuperate [from overwork]. A fortnight was spent at his home in Hollister, with his mother, Mrs. B.F. THOMAS... Miss MATTHEW is the eldest daughter of Rev. Winfield S. MATTHEW...The ceremony, which was intended for last evening, was hastily planned on account of the unexpected arrival of Dr. MATTHEW, who was to perform the ceremony...only the relatives were to be present. Besides his mother, young McCLOUD expected his sister, Mrs. J. COULSON of Honolulu, to be present... To add to the horror of the event, Mrs. B.F. THOMAS, his mother, and Mrs. Bessie COULSON, his sister, walked up the street a few minutes after the shooting occurred and came across the crowd that stood on the sidewalk about the dead body. They were on their way to attend his wedding...The remains were brought to Hollister and the funeral took place yesterday afternoon from the M.E. Church.]" Source: The Free Lance (Hollister, San Benito Co), 28 Aug 1903. Transcribed by Dee.

"McDONALD--SAD CATASTROPHE in SAN FRANCISCO -- The storm which raged with extra-ordinary violence throughout the State on Monday night, was destructive of both life and property in San Francisco. The chief catastrophe which took place in that city occurred at half past 12 o'clock. The brick wall of an unfinished building at Minna and New Montgomery streets was blown down and fell on the roof of a 2 story frame building, occupied as a boarding house. The inmates of course were buried beneath the ruins. The fire alarm was struck and the fire department was of course soon brought to the ground. The 'Call' gives the following particulars of the sad affair:

At the time of the accident the house was occupied by Mrs. McDONALD and 3 children, Mrs. SHERRAY and child, Mrs. KEENE and Miss SLOGAN. A large crowd had collected around the building and the wildest excitement prevailed. The firemen procured a ladder and ascended to the 2nd story. On reaching the front room and removing the debris that had fallen, they discovered Mrs. KEENE lying on the bed. This lady, although badly injured, was alive when taken out, and was conveyed to the house of a neighbor and properly cared for. Working with indefatigable zeal, the firemen cleared the back room, a room that proved to be a funeral shroud. The first object that was reached was Mrs. McDONALD's infant, which was found on the mother's breast. From the position it was found in, it is evident that the mother, when she heard the first noise, clutched her offspring to her breast, but before she could get out of bed the wall was upon them. The child was taken out and was found to be lifeless. Mrs. McDONALD, the mother of the child and lessee of the house, was next taken out and conveyed to the house of a neighbor and a physician summoned; but it was of no avail, life had fled. In death they were not parted. John SHERRAY, a son of Mrs. SHERRAY, was next taken out of the ill-fated building. On examination, it was ascertained that his side was badly injured, but it is thought not fatally. Miss SLOGAN, a lodger, was known to be in the house at the time. Among the confusion and excitement at the time we could not learn of her escape, and her friends are anxious for her safety. When our reporter left, the body had not been recovered from the ruins. Two little children of Mrs. McDONALD, who slept on the 1st floor, heard the noise at first and ran into the street in their night-clothes, thus saving their lives. The scene in the vicinity of the ill-fated house was heart-rending. When our reporter reached the spot, everything was dark and in confusion, every one was running hither and thither, striving to do all in their power to help the unfortunate persons who were within the walls. Added to this was the storm still raging, and as flash after flash lit up the vicinity, it cast a lurid hue on everything around. The firemen worked bravely, and it is owing greatly to their efforts that any at all were saved from the ruins." Source: Stockton Daily Independent, 22 Feb 1871. Transcribed by Dee.

"McDONALD--THE SAN FRANCISCO TRAGEDY -- The catastrophe at Minna and New Montgomery streets, San Francisco, was more destructive of life and limb than was at first reputed. 4 persons were crushed to death and several others were badly injured, 1 or 2 of whom may not recover. There seems to be but little doubt that the disaster was the result of culpable mismanagement as the unsafe condition of the walls of the new building had been discussed the evening before they fell. The 'Chronicle' of Thursday says: The killed are Johanna McDONALD, aged 37 years; Mary LOGAN, aged 35; Peter McDONALD, aged 9 months; and Lizzie SHERRY, aged 11 years. The last named is a daughter of Mrs. McDONALD by her 1st husband. Johnny SHERRY who was spoken of as having been injured, was in a doubtful condition yesterday, he having been more seriously injured than was at first supposed. Coroner LETTERMAN took charge of the remains of the killed, and they were conveyed to the morgue and there laid out. 3 tables were placed side by side, on one of which Mrs. McDONALD was placed, on the next lay her dead children, and further on were the remains of Mrs. LOGAN. Soon after 10 o'clock in the morning a crowd of persons thronged to the Morgue with that morbid desire which is a part and parcel of human nature -- a desire to look upon the faces of those who have been suddenly called to that unknown country from whose bourne no tidings are received, or no traveler returns. The Coroner's Clerk, Mr. O'BRIEN, then opened the doors of the Morgue and from that time a continual crowd poured in until evening, when it was found necessary to refuse admittance to any more. It is estimated that over 5,000 persons, men, women and children, visited the room in which the bodies lay." Source: Stockton Daily Independent, 25 Feb 1871. Transcribed by Dee.

"McDONALD--A most distressing accident occurred yesterday Morning at The Portland Boiler Works, Nos 311 and 313 Mission Street, which resulted in fatality. A number of workmen were engaged in turning a heavy boiler from one position to another, when it suddenly rolled over and crushed a machinist named Bernard McDONALD, beneath it. Some moments elapsed before the unfortunate man could be released, and when it last this was, he was found to be seriously injured. He was conveyed to his home on Howard Street and a messenger was sent for eminent young surgeon, Dr. MURPHY, who immediately visited him. The doctor found the injuries were so severe that they must necessarily prove fatal, but he did for the sufferer all that medical skill could suggest. The unfortunate man lingered on until about ten o'clock last night when death ended his terrible sufferings. The deceased was a native of Massachusetts, aged thirty seven years, and leaves a wife and family to mourn his death." Source: San Francisco Call, 23 April

"McDONALD--McDONALD'S DEATH MAY AFFECT SUIT--MARYSVILLE (Yuba Co.), October 9 - The announcement of the death of J.W. McDONALD, Sr., President of the City Street Improvement Company, which was made from San Francisco Saturday night, is of particular concern to the people of this city, causing as it does much conjecture as to what effect his taking away will have on the future policy of the City Street Improvement Company regarding the suit at Court between that concern and this city over alleged defects in a sewer system installed in 1904. The matter is at present before the Supreme Court on appeal. Judge McDANIEL, of the Superior Court, having rendered a decision for the city. It was thought by many that the latter opinion would bring about a compromise of the suit, but President McDonald would not accede to such a stand. "McDONALD--BY STATE TELEGRAPH, San Francisco, Nov. 9 -- A horrible tragedy occurred in this city yesterday morning at the house of John McDONALD, No. 1218 Kearny street. A young Dane, named Laurentz JACOBSON, living in the family of Mr. McDONALD, fell in love with Miss McDONALD, an estimable girl, aged about 14 years. His attachment was not reciprocated, nor were his addresses sanctioned by the parents, and at their request he removed to another boarding place. He continued to visit the family and on Saturday evening brought a bottle of champagne, of which Mr. & Mrs. McDONALD and the children merely tasted and were afterwards taken violently ill. It afterwards transpired that JACOBSON had attempted to poison the entire family, but owing to the small quantity which was drank they escaped death. Failing in this attempt, he returned to the house at 1 o'clock in the morning. Effecting an entrance through the corridor, he proceeded to Miss McDONALD's room, shot her through the head, and placing the pistol to his own head, blew out his brains. "McGARRY--HORRIBLE SUICIDE of an ARMY OFFICER - The San Francisco 'Examiner' of Tuesday says: This community was thrown into a terrible state of excitement this morning, it having been reported on the streets that an officer of the Regular Army, holding high rank, had cut his own throat from ear to ear. Startled at an announcement so sudden and horrible, the reporter at once started out to obtain the facts of the case, which are as follows: Lieutenant Colonel Edward McGARRY was found dead at an early hour this morning lying on the floor of his room in the Occidental Hotel weltering in his blood, his throat cut and an open pen knife by his side. Deceased had been drinking very hard of late. Last night he manifested symptoms of mania-a-potu, and the hotel folks endeavored to confine him to his room. About 11 o'clock he told the servant to clear out, locked the door and was found this morning in the condition stated. Deceased was a native of New York, about 45 years of age. Formerly he was an Assemblyman from Napa county, and, subsequently, a Senator from Napa, Solano and Yolo. When the late war broke out, he assisted in raising the 2nd Regiment of Cavalry California Volunteers, of which he was appointed Lieutenant Colonel, and was afterwards Colonel. This regiment did duty on this coast. The war ended. He was appointed Lieutenant Colonel of the 32nd Regiment of Infantry, Regular Army ? one of the newly organized regiments ? which rank he held at the time of his death, with the additional one, if we mistake not, of Brevet Brigadier General. He was a good-hearted man, and universally respected." Source: Stockton Daily Independent, 3 Jan 1868. Transcribed by Dee.

"McNABB--SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH, July 7 - A terrible tragedy occurred at the St. Francis Hotel, corner of Clay and Dupont streets, about 3 o'clock this afternoon. Billy MULLIGAN, who was expatriated by the Vigilance Committee in 1856, has been laboring under an attack of delirium tremens since yesterday. Today he threatened the lives of several persons and when the police attempted to arrest him he retreated to his room in the St. Francis Hotel, threatening to kill any one attempting to enter. Officer CHAPELLE entered the room, when MULLIGAN fired twice at him. CHAPELLE retreated without receiving any injuries. MULLIGAN then opened his window and fired shots down Dupont street. John HART, foreman of Eureka Engine Company, was coming up the street and received a ball in his heart, killing him instantly. Several parties essayed to enter MULLIGAN's room, but were intimidated by his threats. Jack McNABB, a gambler well-known throughout this State, depending upon the friendship that existed by MULLIGAN and himself, attempted to reach MULLIGAN's room and pacify him, but was shot at the foot of the stairs leading to MULLIGAN's room, the ball struck on the shoulder, ranging down and entering the stomach, he returned to the ground floor saying "Billy has killed me," and shortly afterwards expired. The excitement had now become most intense. Several policemen armed with muskets were stationed at the windows in the house on the opposite side of Clay street, one of them catching a glimpse of MULLIGAN, fired and missed him. MULLIGAN then came down to the 2nd story and peeped out at a doorway, when he was shot through the head and instantly killed by a policeman. MULLIGAN was arrested yesterday at the request of some of his friends and was confined in the station house all night. His friends say that he was delirious when discharged from custody this morning and they censure the police for setting him at liberty while in such a dangerous state." "McQUADE--BY STATE TELEGRAPH, San Francisco, Aug. 14 -- John McQUADE, for some 10 years past a clerk in the City Hall records, died suddenly this morning of hemorrhage of the lungs. He was apparently in good health yesterday and attended to business as usual. At 3 o'clock this morning his landlady heard an unusual noise in his room, on Sacramento street, near Kearney street, and knocked at his door. He requested her to come in. She entered the room and discovered him standing at the wash-bowl bleeding profusely at the mouth. A moment afterwards he fell, exclaiming: "I am dying and alone." "MATHEWSON--Death of a Man of Science--Dr. Robert MATHEWSON, who died in this city on the 30 ult, was buried yesterday. He was predominently a man of scientific attainments. A native of Scotland, he there received a thorough education, and in his extensive peregrinations, made the very best use of it. He was in early life a professor in the College of New Jersey, and held other prominent positions before coming to California. He arrived here in 1850, and shortly after established the newspaper known as The Public Balance. This period was the era of newspapers in California, for in 1851 and 1852 there were at least eight or ten daily journals alive, and amongst them one in opposition to The Public Balance. This, called The True Balance, had for its editor and proprietor a learned lawyer, now practicing at the Bar in this city. In later years Dr. MATHEWSON has been somewhat extensively engaged in mining operations. He was also an assistant engineer under United States Surveyors HAYES and MANDEVILLE. The deceased was a man of very retiring disposition and unobtrusive in deportment. He was, however, known and fully appreciated by many of our leading citizens, a number of whom followed his remains to the grave. Dr. MATHEWSON was about 47 years of age, and leaves a wife in this city." Source: Alta California, May 3, 1867 Submitted by Cristine Ham.

"MEACHAM--Death of Mrs. MEACHAM, one of the first settlers in Santa Rosa Township. It is with much regret that we announce the death of Mrs. Sarah MEACHAM, wife of Alonzo MEACHAM, who resides on Mark West creek near Fulton. In the death of Mrs. MEACHAM one of the oldest of the residents of Santa Rosa township disappears from the walks of life. Mrs. MEACHAM was aged about 69 years. In 1851 her husband was engaged in merchandising on the corners of California and Montgomery streets in San Francisco, in partnership with the late Berthold HOEN. The great fire of that year burned them out. Mr. HOEN after the fire went to Oregon, and Mr. MEACHAM, at the instance of Donald McDONALD, the father of Mrs. George HALL, of this city, came to Santa Rosa. McDONALD and his partner, David MALLAGH, had a store at the old adobe on Santa Rosa creek, and Mr. MEACHAM had met them in a business way. The result of the visit was the purchase by MEACHAM of the business, and he came here to reside permanently. In the fall of 1852 Barney HOEN returned from Oregon and bought an interest in the business. In the following spring, 1853, the late T. HAHMAN came up and bought out the interest of MEACHAM in the business. Mr. MEACHAM had in this interval purchased eighty acres of land of CARILLO, of which the westerly line ran through the center of the plaza and Mendocino street to the Bridge Williams slough. This tract is now the main portion of the city of Santa Rosa. MEACHAM afterward sold the land as an entirety to HAHMAN & HOEN. He has resided ever since in the county, both he and his wife, up to the time of her death on Wednesday last. Mrs. MEACHAM was a very bright woman who was beloved by all who knew her, and her long residence in the county had made her many friends. She has a daughter, Mrs. CASEWIN of Oakland, and three sons, one of whom is a resident of Redwood City. The deceased was among the oldest continuous residents of this county, and it is a sad task which has devolved upon us to make this inefficient and too short notice of her long, memorable and useful life. The funeral will take place on Friday at her late residence, and the interment will be

"MILLAR--The Late Dr. C.F. MILLAR--His Old Home Pays All Honors to Its Gifted Son--The Last Yearnings of His Strong Nature Were to Die in His Loved California--In the "Democrat" of June 26th it was chronicled that Dr. Chas. F. MILLAR and family had arrived from Alaska in Seattle but that he was in such a enfeebled condition that he could proceed no farther and was taken to Providence hospital. His death on Sunday and the arrival of the body at Dixon on Tuesday was subsequently announced in these columns. The funeral was held today (Wednesday) in the presence of one of the largest congregations that ever assembled in Dixon. Such scenes are always a picture of sorrow and some times of despair, but penetrating the gloom on this occasion was the conviction more potent than all the processes of reasoning that death is not a finality in creation's work and that the soul does not perish even when the chords and keys that gave it utterance are broken. The officiating clergyman was Father LALLY of San Jose, by whom he was married, and the sermon of the eloquent priest touched a responsive chord in the hearts of hundreds who were there to drop a flower and a tear upon the casket of one they had loved and respected as boy and man for over thirty years. It was such a beautiful and touching tribute to the life and character of Dr. MILLAR, it was so full of sublime thought and soulful inspiration that under its influence the silver lining to the dark clouds became almost as radiant as the morning sun. The contribution of flowers was so fresh and the blooms so choice as to be worthy of remark even in this land of flowers where the bestowal of the freshest floral treasures in abundance and the most favored way of paying friendship's tribute. And after the mass and the sermon the casket was reverently followed to the cemetery, where the last tribute of respect was paid. During that brief hour Dixon was a town of closed stores and closed shops. The people were around the open grave and as the casket was lowered a moment's hush fell on the vast concourse, and only the voice of the sighing wind whispered, "Good night, dear friend; some happy day to thy glorified spirit we shall say good morrow." Dr. MILLAR was born in Dixon January 9, 1876. He was the only son of the late Charles MILLAR and of Mrs. Mary MILLAR, who survives him. He began life on a farm and was educated in the public schools, St. Mary's College and the state university. After receiving his medical diploma he was a member of the medical staff of the Southern Pacific hospital, under the late Dr. GARDNER, for several years. In September, 1902, he was married to Miss Mary VAN VRANKEN, who survives

him. To them has been born one daughter, Ruth, now five years old. Soon after his marriage he established an office in San Francisco and soon acquired a lucrative practice. In 1905, he was appointed chief of the emergency hospital. He entered upon the duties and obligations which were imposed upon him by the position of honor and trust, with zeal and enthusiasm. He found as his colleagues the master medical spirits of San Francisco and they were quick to recognize his ability and high character and the thoroughness with which he was equipped. Determined to justify the confidence imposed in him, he applied himself diligently and intelligently to the task of mastering all the details and the great work he was required to perform or direct, with all the spirit and enthusiasm of which he was capable. As a result, before the close of one year of his administration he had earned the confidence of the public, the good will of the medical profession and inaugurated reforms and improvements that made the emergency hospital a model of its kind. He had the endorsement of all the newspapers of San Francisco and during the long period when excitement was rife and San Francisco was stirred from center to circumference with rumors of municipal corruption it is significant that there was never a breath of scandal relating in the remotest way to his conduct and management of the municipal hospital. The important part he played during the dark days that followed the awful tragedy of earthquake and fire can never be forgotten by those who were an eye witness to his untiring labors and unselfish deeds. Once assured of the safety of his mother, wife and daughter, he did not visit them for days at a time, but devoted all his energies to the noble and heroic task of alleviating the sufferings of those less fortunate. For weeks he did not remove his clothing or sleep enough to recuperate his wasting strength. Not once did he falter or waver in the discharge of his public duty. Although he won the praise and admiration of the people of San Francisco, he was apparently indifferent to it and never trumpeted the kindly things said about him. It did not seem to occur to him that his work entitled him to praise and credit. One duty done he proceeded quickly to the performance of another. He was actuated by a lofty purpose and unfaltering persistence in the discharge of a public obligation and it was this unselfish devotion to duty that prematurely cut short his brilliant and useful life. Exposure, privation and overwork planted the deadly germs that a few months later developed into tuberculosis. Ill health forced him to resign his position in 1907 and finally to abandon his practice. He was persuaded to take a trip to Alaska. He located in Fairbanks and for a time a slight improvement in his condition was noticeable and he concluded to send for his wife and daughter and remain long enough to give the climate a thorough trial. He soon began to decline again, but not until the winter was so far advanced that there was no chance to leave until June. The family took passage on the first boat out and arrived in Seattle on Friday the 24th, where the doctor's mother was awaiting them. He was too weak to proceed any farther and was taken to Providence hospital, where he died the following Sunday morning. Retaining his love for his native state, his one great desire, when he realized that his struggle for life was hopeless, was to return to California and pass away amid the scenes of his young and vigorous manhood and of his early triumphs. No doubt it was this overmastering desire, this fervent hope, that fanned the spark of life and sustained him during the long and dreary winter when there was no travel over the ice fields of the north, and nerved him for the final effort when the first boat of the year left the Alaska shores for Seattle. What must have been his hopes, his doubts and his fears during his last days, we can only conjecture, but we are ready to believe that hope inspired him to the last, and it seems pitifully pathetic that the dearest wish of his heart could not be granted; that after the most trying part of his journey was over, almost in sight of his native state, he should be denied the mournful satisfaction of looking once more upon the scenes of his childhood and closing his eyes in the last sleep of death amid the familiar and peaceful environments of his old home. There is no work or phrase in any language that carries with it the full significance of the word home. It is not capable of translation or even of definition and interpretation. Is it any wonder that he so dearly cherished the memories and imagery that cluster around its memory? Dr. Charles F. MILLAR died in the prime of life, just as his capacity for usefulness had been fully developed, and at a time when he had won high distinction by hard study and intelligent and diligent application in his chosen profession. He was endowed with all the attributes of mind and character that are essential to success. He was a thorough Californian, born and bred in the state, and he loved his native state with all the intensity of his nature. This patriotic love of home was born with him, indeed, it was his inheritance from ancestors who passed the best part of their lives here. He was well trained, and well read in his profession. He was a man of great energy and courage and sensitive of honor and unblemished character. With all these qualities of mind and heart his success in the medical world was assured. Nobody could associate with him without realizing fully his many fine qualities and that he was a courteous and cultured gentleman who maintained high ideals. While quiet and unassuming, he possessed virility, energy and vigor and was industrious and ambitious in the performance of his duties. His life was all too short to fill out the measure of its promise, but he furnishes a noble and worthy example, a rich incentive for young men who are filled with a desire for a higher and better life and an ambition to accomplish something noble and useful. He was an occasional visitor in Woodland, but his acquaintance here was not sufficiently wide to make his life and death of any special local interest and it is therefore not necessary to lift the veil that shuts from the public view the private grief in the family circle. But there are those who knew him and a few to whom his death is a personal loss and it is not inappropriate to say that their hearts go out in sympathetic love to the lonely mother who lavished upon her only son all the wealth of a mother's affection, to the heart-broken wife whose loss seems irreparable, to the sweet little flower and only daughter, whose young life was closely twined about his heart, but who is too young to fully realize the awful solemnity of death, and to understand what it means to lose the loving companionship and trusting faith of a father. May they have the faith that looks beyond the grave and inspires us with the hope and confidence of immortality. The memory of the virtues of a dutiful and devoted son, a loving and affectionate husband and father is a legacy that will enrich them all. He is buried where he was born. His grave is hard by the spot where his cradle was rocked. He sleeps where he wished to sleep, in the bosom of his beloved Solano home." Source: The Woodland Democrat, 30 June 1909. "MOFFIT--ARREST of a MURDERER -- A man by name of David BUTLER was arrested at San Francisco on Tuesday evening, and taken to the station house upon a charge of murder. We gather the following facts of the case from the 'Bulletin:' "It appears that about 2 years ago, he murdered a man named MOFFIT, near Downieville, and escaped to Oregon. As soon as reliable information was received that BUTLER was in Oregon and a large reward had been offered for his capture, Sheriff JACKSON, of Siskiyou county, went after him, and after several months of search finally arrested him. The Sheriff, with his prisoner, took passage for this port on the schooner J.C. Whiting. When within about 10 miles of the "Heads," the Sheriff and prisoner were standing talking near the bow of the vessel, while the rest of the persons on board were all out of sight, or with their eyes turned another way. On attention being directed towards the bow again, it was found that BUTLER was alone. On running up, the body of Sheriff JACKSON was seen in the water; but there was apparently little or no life in it and it sank. No one except BUTLER saw the Sheriff fall overboard, and it is therefore supposed that BUTLER must have thrown him over and perhaps have done him some serious, but sudden injury before-hand. Attempts were made to recover the body, but they were unsuccessful. The prisoner was immediately secured, and last evening on the arrival of the schooner, he was taken charge of by Capt. FOLSOM and officer DOUGLASS of the police. A bowie-knife and file were found upon BUTLER, who is a large, robust, black-whiskered and hard looking man. He is said to have been for a long time a great gambler and desperado about Downieville." Source: Stockton Daily Argus, 20 Mar 1857. Transcribed by Dee.

"MOGAN, Joseph R.--Death of a Pioneer Catholic--Hon. Joseph R. MOGAN, one of the oldest members of the Catholic Church in San Francisco, passed away at the family home, No. 1144 Haight street, on Friday evening last. The deceased in his last illness was attended by all the consolations of our holy religion. He arrived in San Francisco in the year 1850 and was always known for his devotion to the Catholic faith. He was a member of the Gentlemen's Sodality of St. Ignatius Church, almost from the inception of that noble society, and up to the time that his ills of old age prevented him, was also active in his membership. The funeral was held on Monday from his late residence and a solemn Requiem High Mass was offered at St. Agnes' Church for the repose of his soul. The remains were interred in Holy Cross Cemetery and a large delegation from the Sodality of St. Ignatius Church was in attendance at the interment as a special mark of respect to the deceased. After many years spent in mercantile pursuits, the deceased, a few years since, retired from business in possession of a comfortable fortune. He is survived by his wife, Sarah MOGAN, and five sons, Richard F., a practicing lawyer of San Francisco; Judge E. P. MOGAN, one of the Judges of the Superior Court; Joseph F. MOGAN, a Deputy City Recorder; Dr. C. J. MOGAN, a well-known dentist of this city; Frank J. MOGAN,

"MOGAN--'Passing Of Pearl HUGHES MOGAN'--Wednesday of last week Pearl HUGHES MOGAN was standing on McAllister street in San Francisco waiting for a street car. According to reliable accounts, an open switch caused the car to sheer and strike Mrs. MOGAN with the result that her skull was fractured and she died within a few hours. Mrs. MOGAN was born in Crescent City forty-four years ago, left here when a young girl with her mother, Margaret HUGHES, and has lived in San Francisco since then. Sometime after leaving she was married to Mr. C. MOGAN of San Francisco, a nephew of Superior Judge MOGAN of that city. Two daughters were born to the union one of whom is seventeen and the other nineteen years of age. Over thirty years ago Mr. Charles HUGHES, then Sheriff of Del Norte county, took a prisoner and while in San Francisco was taken seriously ill with pneumonia and the first news of the matter to Mrs. HUGHES was his death. Later her oldest son, James, was killed while working in the Newburg shake mill. Three years ago her second son, Eddie C., was killed in an automobile collision on the highway near San Jose. Pearl was the only child left to Mrs. HUGHES and she too met an untimely death. The two daughters of the deceased and a nephew, the son of Eddie, and our esteemed citizen, J. B. ENDERT of this city, who is an uncle of the deceased, have our sincere sympathy in the loss of one who was a loving and affectionate mother, daughter and sister and a woman of many sterling virtues. The deceased has many other relatives in Del Norte county with whom we grieve in her untimely death but words cannot express our sympathy for the poor old mother whose life has been so stricken by the events of fate. We remember Mrs. HUGHES as a quiet, modest little lady apparently forgetting her own great griefs in her watchfulness for an opportunity to help others in time of sorrow and bereavement. Our heart certainly goes out to her in this her last great sorrow. May the Lord in whom she fervently trusts give her strength to sustain herself during these dark hours." "MOONEY--We learn from the San Francisco papers of another of those brutal outrages, recently so common in San Francisco. The victim in this case is a girl, 13 years of age, by the name of Annie MOONEY. Her parents live in Brooklyn, Alameda Co. She was attending school in Oakland, going from home each day and returning by train in the evening. On Tuesday of last week, she went to school as usual but failed to come home in the evening. Search was instituted by her parents and the police of Oakland and San Francisco, and not until Thursday following was any clue to her whereabouts obtained; she was then found in a room in the Cosmopolitan Hotel in San Francisco, in an insensible condition, having been, as is supposed, drugged by some incarnate fiend. She was taken to her home and medical aid summoned, but to no purpose; she died at short time after reaching home. The whole affair is shrouded in the deepest mystery. Enough, however, is known to establish the fact that a most foul and murderous crime has been committed. It is certainly to be hoped that the guilty parties in this most sickening murder will be found and brought to justice. Such crimes are too common and if the law is inadequate to their suppression, we can hardly blame outraged communities to take such cases in their own hands, as was threatened in this case. Annie MOONEY was a girl, remarkable for her personal beauty and extraordinary intellectual facilities for one her age; of a highly respectable family and favorably known and respected by a large circle of friends and school-mates, both in San Francisco and Oakland. Facts elicited on the post mortem examination, throw some suspicion on a number of parties, but places the matter by no means in a clear light. Mystery, like a dense fog, hangs over the whole affair." Source: Russian River Flag (Healdsburg, CA), 1 Sept 1870. Transcribed by Jeanne Taylor.

infant child, Eliza MUNRO, was tried in San Francisco on Wednesday. The jury was out only 10 minutes, returning a verdict that she was "not guilty, by reason of insanity." "MUNROE--HORRID MURDER of an INFANT by its MOTHER -- A most horrible and revolting murder of a child by its mother took place in San Francisco Sunday. Suspicions had been aroused on seeing a woman named Eliza MUNROE carrying a large bundle to an outhouse, and upon search being made, was discovered the dead body of a female child about 6 weeks old, wrapped up in clothes hidden beneath the seat of the outhouse. The head of the child had been severed from the body by some sharp instrument, and it was evident from the appearance of the cut, that several strokes had been made. The head was wrapped up in several clothes and the body in others, and both were stuffed into a pillowcase. The coroner being informed of these facts, made an examination of the premises, which are on a triangular lot on the corner of Kearney, Market and Geary streets, and upon searching the woman's bedroom, found an axe, the blade and handle of which were bloody. Buried under the sand in the lot, he found several pieces of a bloody washboard, some bloody rags, a parcel of shavings and 2 large pieces of rosin. It was evident that the woman had intended to burn the bloody boards and rags, and perhaps the body itself. On being taken to the station house by the Coroner, the woman confessed having murdered the child, stating that it was illegitimate, and she thought its death would save considerable trouble and expense to her husband and to herself on account of her husband. She said that the axe had fallen from her hand 3 times while attempting to commit the horrid deed. She finally laid the child upon the wash-board, and with 2 blows severed the head from the body. She cleaned up the blood with rags which she concealed in the yard where they were found. She afterwards washed the head and body of the child, wrapped them up, and carried them to the outhouse. The woman, after reaching the Station House, was confined in a cell, and she is still there. She is rather tall; about 30 years of age; rather fine looking, but with a troubled and unsettled expression. She is said to be a native of Cork, Ireland. She has, nevertheless, told a calm story, and has not shown any insanity while in the station house. She walks her cell and seems much troubled." Source: Stockton Daily Argus, 17 Mar 1857. "MURPHY--THE TRIAL of GUNN for MURDER --Dennis GUNN has been tried in San Francisco for the murder of Edward J. MURPHY. On the 31st of last December, GUNN shot and killed MURPHY on Pine street for the alleged seduction of his sister. During the trial on Thursday, Miss GUNN, aged 19, testified that an outrage had been perpetrated upon her at the millinery store, at which she worked, on Sutter street, several months before the shooting took place. She called for help, but none came. She did not give information of MURPHY's conduct, because he threatened to kill her if she did, and promised to marry her if she did not. A month afterward, the outrage was repeated at MURPHY's shop, where witness went to make arrangements for the marriage. After witness was told that MURPHY was already married and living with his wife, these facts were not repeated. Witness did not inform on MURPHY at any time for fear he would kill her. Dennis GUNN, her brother, received a letter from some source informing him of what had been going on. He became very much excited, showed the letter to his sister and asked her if it was true. On being told that it was, he procured a pistol and shot MURPHY. The defense also proved that MURPHY was a very corrupt man, that he had 3 wives living and that he had boasted that he had seduced Miss GUNN under a promise of marriage. The jury returned a verdict of "not guilty," last evening, when the widest demonstration of delight

"MURRAY--HUGH C. MURRAY -- Sacramento 'Age' -- Chief Justice MURRAY died early Friday morning of perforation of the lungs, in the 34th year of his age. He was born at St. Louis, Missouri, on the 22d of April, 1825. His parents were not in the affluent walks of life; shortly after his birth they removed to Alton, Illinois; when he was 10 years old, his father died. He was educated at Surtleff College, Upper Alton, and studied law with Nelson D. STRONG, of Lower Alton, and was admitted to practice in 1845. In 1847 he was appointed to a Lieutenancy in the 14th Infantry, United States Army, and was present at the battles of Contreras and Cherubusco, and at the storming of Chapultepec Castle. Friends and acquaintances are invited to attend.] DEATH of a PIONEER -- Isaac MURRAY, an old resident of this city, died yesterday afternoon of pneumonia, which resulted from a cold contracted about a week ago. Deceased was born on the Island of Alderney, Sept. 19, 1796, and when quite young went to Stockport, England, where he engaged in the manufacture of cotton goods. In 1834 or '35, he left England for the City of Mexico, where he resided 14 years and followed the same manufacturing business which he had pursued in England. He came to California and took up his residence in Stockton in July, 1849, and built some of the first frame buildings erected in the city, and which still stand on Market street. Shortly after arriving in Stockton, he went to the mines and there was engaged in mining and storekeeping for about 2 years, returned to Stockton in 1852, and has resided here constantly since that time. Deceased was a man who possessed more than ordinary intelligence, was a clear and forcible thinker, a strong advocate of the principles of freedom and the rights of man, and no opposition could swerve him from what he considered to be right. As a man of moral worth and sterling integrity he commanded the respect and esteem of his fellow citizens. He leaves several daughters in this city and, we believe, 3 or 4 sons in San Francisco, to mourn his death. Mr. MURRAY was a member of San Joaquin Society of California Pioneers." "MURRAY--BY THIS MORNING'S BOAT -- Dreadful -- 2 Children Burned to Death--Yesterday morning, at 6 ½ o'clock, a fire broke out in a 2-story frame house occupied by Mr. John MURRAY, and several other families, on Milton street, San Francisco, and so rapidly did the flames spread, that 2 children of Mr. MURRAY were burned to death. Every effort was made to rescue them, but without avail. The children thus dreadfully lost were a little girl aged 2 years and an infant son aged 2 months. The little girl apparently had awakened as when found she had 1 leg thrown over the side of the bed. The fire was contained to the single building." Source: Stockton Daily Argus, 22 Apr 1857. It was later identified as that of Edward W. NELSON, a riveter, who lives with his parents at 232 Mississippi street. The features were unrecognizable, and had it not been for a black scarf found upon the body identification would have been impossible. One leg was missing, and had evidently been blown from the body by force of the explosion. The identification was made by William NELSON, a brother of the dead riveter, and the body was found by Bert RODGERS, an employee of the Wrecking Company. "OAKLEY--San Francisco, March 14- About 11 o'clock this morning, Samuel E. OAKLEY was found in a dying condition in a room at the Americal Exchange Hotel. He engaged a room the previous afternoon, retired to it, and was not seen again until found as above mentioned. The chambermaid heard groans in the room, which was locked. The door was opened, and OAKLEY found in bed. Two bottles of Laudanum were by him; one empty and the other partially full. Medical assistance was promptly called. but the case was beyond remedy and death ensued before noon. Mr. OAKLEY was a gentleman well known in mercantile circles, was formerly proprietor of the OAKLEY mill on Sacramento Street, below Davis, one of the largest establishments of its kind in the City. It was burned down some three or four years ago. Since that time he has been involved in the steamboating business, being the owner of the steamboats Express and Vaquero, running to Napa. Financial embarrassment is supposed to be the cause of suicide, he being known to be considerably involved. He was a man about forty five years of age, and leaves a wife and seven children in the city. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, under whose auspices the funeral will probably be conducted. (Second Dispatch) - The wife of OAKLEY, states that it has been the habit of the deceased, for a number of years to take laudunum to produce sleep. It is her belief that OAKLEY went to the hotel and took the drug with the intent to procure an undisturbed night's rest, and took an overdose. The fact that by the side of the deceased, in the bed, was found a travelers guidebook of the Pacific coast, which he had evidently been reading, is considered to give some clout to his wife's theory." "O'CONNELL--Suicide -- A young man named O'CONNELL, a native of Ireland, committed suicide yesterday morning, in his room on Bush street, by taking strychnine. It appears, says the 'Alta,' that he had engaged a passage to Australia on the 'Vaquero,' but for some cause he did not leave with the vessel. In his room was found a 3 ounce phial of laudanum, and a similar one of strychnine, partially empty, clearly showing that he had taken the same. In letters left he expressed his intention to take his life on the voyage. All his private papers were destroyed, and it is difficult to surmise the reasons for the rash act." "O'CONNOR--Mrs. Mary O'CONNOR was the wife, and for three years past the widow, of the late Bryan O'CONNOR, founder of the great dry goods house of O'CONNOR, MOFFATT & Co. The litigation which began shortly after his death in regard to the disposal of the vast fortune which he left, estimated at from $600,000 to $800,000, had the effect of making much of the history of himself and his wife public property. Mrs. O'CONNOR was born near Dublin about forty-six years ago, her maiden name being COSTELLO. Her people were in very modest circumstances, for which reason nearly all the members of the family were obliged to do what they could toward supporting themselves. Mrs. O'CONNOR, or Mary COSTELLO as she was then, at quite an early age entered a millinery store in Dublin, in which city Bryan O'CONNOR was at the same time a clerk in a dry goods establishment. An acquaintance accidentally began between the two, which speedily ripened into an affection which was destined to continue undiminished during the lives of both. When Mary COSTELLO had agreed to become engaged to him Bryan O'CONNOR left Dublin to seek his fortune in newer fields. He went first to Australia, where he remained some years, but the measure of prosperity which he met with there was not sufficient to content him. He sailed to New York, and there engaged in the business in which he was destined to spend his life.

For nine long years Bryan O'CONNOR worked earnestly and faithfully to achieve a position which he could ask his wife to share, and during all this time Mary COSTELLO waited patiently at home for the message which she knew would some day reach her. It came at last, and she crossed the sea to New York to meet her lover, and the constant pair were immediately united. Shortly afterward they came to this city and Mr. O'CONNOR established the business for which he was ever afterward identified. There was the most complete accord between Mr. and Mrs. O'CONNOR always, and, though their two children died in infancy, their married life was, owing to their mutual affection, singularly happy. Mr. O'CONNOR died on the 28th of August, 1877. Mrs. O'CONNOR a sister and a brother living in this city, the former, who is a single lady, having

"O'REILLY--November 12, 1900 - Mrs Elizabeth O'REILLY, who a few weeks ago celebrated her 105th birthday, died on Saturday afternoon at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. C. CONNEDD, at 107 O'Farrell Street. Up to within a few hours of her death, she retained all of her senses. Her sight and hearing were perfect and she boasted doctors were never among her acquaintances. Medicines she never took and she never had a days illness until a few days ago, when she contracted a severe cold. She was unable to rally from it and it caused her death. Mrs. O'REILLY was born in the summer of 1795 at Rathclare, County Cork, Ireland. In 1867 she came to America and resided in San Francisco nearly al the time since she crossed the Atlantic. Her rules of life were to live plainly, observe regular habits and always keep your mind and body occupied. As age kept up on her, her occupation narrowed down to knitting, and up to the time she was taken with her fatal illness she was constantly busy all during the day with knitting needles. She was the head of four generations still living in the city. Among them are six great grandchildren and fourteen grandchildren." Source: Sacramento Bee, 12 Nov

"OSBORN--DEATH of MR. OSBORN--T.C. OSBORN, Esq., local editor of the 'Daily Independent,' died in this city at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon after a lingering illness of some 2 months. His disease originated in a cold taken over a year ago, whilst on a visit to the Atlantic States, which resisted all efforts to rid himself of it, and at last terminated in consumption of the bowels. For nearly 3 months deceased had been but a mere skeleton of his former self, racked with pain and oppressed by melancholy. Yet he kept upon his feet and until a month or 6 weeks ago, continued in the performance of his editorial and other duties. A fortnight ago he was compelled to take his bed, and rapidly grew worse until death yesterday, kindly closed the scene and released him from pain. Mr. OSBORN was a native of Edgartown, Massachusetts, where his father and 2 sisters still reside. He sailed for California in 1849, on the ship 'Splendid,' and arrived at San Francisco that year among the first of the pioneers. He immediately visited the mines in what is now Tuolumne county, and labored as a miner, with fair success until the autumn of 1850, when he came to Stockton, and engaged as a clerk in a large grocery store kept by a Mr. SCHOFIELD. The following year he became a partner in the house and continued business there until about then year 1855, having meantime been burnt out by a fire which laid waste the city. In 1855 he became the local editor of the Stockton 'Argus,' and remained in that position until the Spring of 1861. In the autumn of 1861 he entered this office as local editor of the 'Independent,' the duties of which position he faithfully performed until the summer of 1862, when he visited his old home, remaining East until the Spring of 1863, and resuming his position on the 'Independent' shortly after his return from the East. Our deceased friend and associate during these months and years of daily toil, was a gentleman of excellent sense, good education, a fair knowledge of mankind, of strict morality, without the least bigotry or hypocrisy, and patriotism pure and untainted by the vulgarity of selfishness. These qualities were adorned by a modesty and unobtrusiveness which in the eyes of the discerning, made them all the more valuable; made him, in fact, a man to grow in one's esteem by long acquaintance, and to be, alas! all the more sadly missed in this, his unending absence. Few men have for so long a time followed a daily newspaper life, and dying, left no more enemies, or as many friends who will sincerely mourn his loss. These are they to whom all the world wishes prosperity and length of days. How sad that he should have been snatched away from us in the very threshold of manhood's career. But the ways of the Great Master are best and with Christian resignation we must surrender our friend as others haven been surrendered, silently abiding the inscrutable Will. Mr. OSBORN was about 35 years old, unmarried, and leaves no relative closer than a cousin in this State. His father and 2 of his sisters reside in Edgartown, Massachusetts; one married sister lives in Milwaukie, Wisconsin, and his only brother is commander of a ship engaged in the whaling trade. He was a member of the Free Masons and Odd Fellows, which fraternities will take charge of his remains for interment." Source: Stockton Daily Independent, 18 Apr 1864. Transcribed by Dee Sardoch.

"OSTRANDER--STEAMBOAT EXPLOSION -- The steam ferry boat, Contra Costa, exploded her boiler on Sunday morning last, whilst crossing the bar to enter Oakland. We append a list of the killed, taken from the 'Alta,' of Monday, together with the number of the injured: List of the Killed -- The following is the list of those who are known to have been killed: -David W. CADY, a street contractor, formerly Deputy City Surveyor, aged 34 years, a native of New York. Mr. C. was blown into the air and fell into the water; he swam to the boat and was taken on board the Oakland, but died soon after. Michael G. SMITH, the barkeeper of the boat, was engaged in opening a basket of wine at the time of the explosion. The bar-room was entirely carried away, and the unfortunate man was never seen afterwards. It is rumored that a hand was subsequently found which, by a ring upon one of the fingers, was recognized as belonging to Mr. SMITH. Henry L. OSTRANDER, one of the crew, was dreadfully scalded and was brought to this city [San Francisco] and taken to the Marine Hospital, where he died soon after. Albert WINSHIP, one of the firemen, was dreadfully scalded, and taken on board the steamer Oakland and conveyed to the shore, where he died in a few minutes. George McDOWELL, the head fireman of the boat, a native of New Jersey, and a son of ex-Alderman McDOWELL, of Sacramento. His remains were brought to this city [San Francisco] on the wreck of the Contra Costa, but re-taken to Oakland for a Coroner's inquest. "PACKARD--Lucile S. PACKARD, wife of Hewlett-Packard Chairman David PACKARD and renowned in Silicon Valley as a major philanthropist, died at the couple's Los Altos Hills home Saturday. Her death at 72 ended a months-long fight against cancer. In the late 1930s, Mrs. PACKARD helped her husband and William HEWLETT as they founded the firm that would become a legend in American business. HEWLETT and PACKARD worked out of the PACKARD garage on Addison Avenue in Palo Alto, and she was their jack-of-all-trades. "My role was typing the letters, keeping the records, and heating up the coffee pot," she said years later. Forty-seven years after its founding, the company has 82,000 employees worldwide, and the PACKARDs own 17 percent of its stock, worth nearly $3 billion. Along the way, the PACKARDs have given away millions to a variety of causes, including the Children's Hospital at Stanford, the Monterey Bay Aquarium, and the San Jose Museum of Art. But Lucile PACKARD was most recognized in recent years for her work with the Stanford Children's Hospital and a new children's hospital soon to be built there. A colleague said Saturday that the new facility, to which Mrs. PACKARD and her husband donated $40 million, is a direct result of her efforts. "She was really the inspiration," said Charles A. Anderson, the former president of Stanford Research Institute in Menlo Park and the man who succeeded her as chairman of the board of Children's Hospital. "I really think it would not have happened were it not for her." Born in 1914

in San Francisco, Lucile SALTER met David PACKARD in the kitchen of her sorority during their undergraduate years at Stanford University. He was helping to finance his education as a dishwasher between classes. He graduated in 1934 and she graduated a year later with a bachelor's degree in English. They were married in 1938. A year later, she took a secretarial job in the university registrar's office. In the evenings, she would come home and work with her husband and HEWLETT. Not long after, she became a paid employee as her role in the tiny firm expanded. "That included interviewing potential employees all the way to baking the metal panels of the company's new electronic products in her oven, Hewlett-Packard spokesman Roy Verley said Saturday. She used the same oven to bake sweet rolls and make coffee for employees. As the company grew, Lucile PACKARD initiated a number of personnel policies that remain: gifts to mark the birthday and wedding of employees or the birth of a child, company picnics, and the "beer bust" -- an afternoon break of beer and hot dogs several times a year. Lucile PACKARD became increasingly devoted to charity work, focusing specifically on children's health and educational programs. She became a leader in developing child care programs in Palo Alto and San Jose. In 1964, the PACKARDS formed a Los Altos-based foundation in their name with $100,000. Last year, the foundation gave $8 million for cultural, educational, conservation, and community programs in Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, Monterey, and San Benito counties. In recent years, she became the prime force behind the new Stanford Children's Hospital, a $60 million project scheduled for groundbreaking later this year with completion slated for 1990. It will combine the current operations of Stanford Children's Hospital with the pediatric and neonatal intensive care units of Stanford University Hospital. In her work for the new hospital, Lucile PACKARD toured the country, visiting as many as 20 children's hospitals and involving herself in every aspect of the project. "She was concerned about everything from the color of the upholstery of the furniture to the broad medical direction of the place," said Diarmuid McGuire, director of community affairs for Stanford Children's Hospital. Despite her standing as chairwoman of the hospital board, Lucile PACKARD was careful not to wield her wealth and power over her hospital colleagues. "I've seen in the course of my career many chairmen of the board," Anderson said. "She was probably one of the most effective in that role that I've ever known. She was neither domineering nor was she so self-effacing so as not to exercise leadership. She operated on the basis of getting the consensus views of the people who were involved in these activities." She also took a strong interest in another family project--the Monterey Bay Aquarium. The aquarium was built and operated by the PACKARD family, and until her death, Lucile PACKARD was the vice president and member of the board of the aquarium. In addition to her husband, she is survived by four children, Julie E. PACKARD of Soquel; David Woodley PACKARD of Princeton, N.J.; Susan P. ORR of Palo Alto; and Nancy P. BURNETT of Carmel Valley; and nine grandchildren. A memorial service will be held at 4 p.m. Thursday at Stanford University Memorial Church. Donations can be made to the new Stanford Children's Hospital." "PERNACK--'COOS BAY WRECK BODY IS IDENTIFIED'--The body found on the beach near the wreck of the Coos Bay at Lands End Saturday was identified last night as that of Herbert PERNACK, 28, of 2065 Sutter street. The identification was made by William SCHMIDT of Petaluma, life long friend of the dead man. SCHMIDT said PERNACK had been missing since October 30. He declared that PERNACK was a "crank" on taking photographs of unusual scenes, no matter how difficult, and his theory is that the young man tried to get a picture from the Coos Bay and fell overboard. Dr. Shelby P. Strange, city autopsy surgeon, likewise was of the opinion the man was drowned, discrediting a theory that he was the victim of foul play." Source: San Francisco Chronicle, 8 Nov 1927, p. 4. 'WRECKED SHIP RESTS EASILY AT LANDS END AS SEAS CALM'--Thousands of Photo Takers Crowd Shoreline and Cliffs Near Scene--The wreck of the steamer Coos Bay was definitely established yesterday as a landmark. It served throughout the day as an attraction to thousands and an excuse for the sale of large quantities of hot dogs. The elements having effectually disposed of it as a ship, seemed inclined to let it alone. The sea was calm and the waves lapped gently at the steel sides. The weather was as clear as though there had never been a fog to trick a good steel steamer into attempting an overland journey and the cliffs swarmed with camera fiends taking advantage of the sunlight to snap pictures of the stricken vessel. As shipwrecks pictures most of these films are doomed to a complete lack of drama. The deserted hull, aside from being closer in shore than the conventions demand, looks natural enough to steam away and the snapshots might plausibly be entitled "Coos Bay Passing Through the Golden Gate." Only one large rock uncovered at low tide, piercing the plates near the bow serves to indicate that the Coos Bay was trying to pass through Lincoln Park instead. The vessel is unfortunate even in its status as an amusement attraction. The old wreck of the Lyman Stewart lies less than half a mile away, around a couple of points, and at least 50 percent of the throng that went out to view the wreck yesterday stood on the cliff above the riven hulk of the Lyman Stewart under the impression that they were looking down at the other ship. It looks more like a wreck and the waves breaking over it and sputtering through holes in the deck made it far more spectacular. --CAMERA FIENDS FOOLED --It attracted as many cameras yesterday as the more recent victim of the rocks and full many a San Francisco photograph album is going to contain a picture of the Lyman Stewart, carefully labeled "Wreck of the Coos Bay." The crowds watching the bona fide recent shipwreck, however, got one thrill yesterday afternoon that the Lyman Stewart fans missed. A seaplane hovered above the cliffs for a time and then suddenly swooped down directly over the Coos Bay. It almost skimmed the decks, turned sharply and shot up again, missing the cliff walls of the small cove by a dangerous margin. Comment was fairly evenly divided as to the aviator's skill, luck and foolhardiness. It is probable that several thousand people viewed the wreck during the day. A constant stream of people flowed along the abandoned right of way of the Market Street Railway Land's End Line and as closing time for shops and offices approached the crowd thickened. Parking space from Sea Cliff to the Legion of Honor Palace was jammed with automobiles and the drive was thick with traffic. --WRECK HEARING SET--What represented amusement for the crowd was serious in official quarters. Captain B.W. Olson of the Coos Bay filed his official report with Captain John K. Bulger, U.S. Inspector of Steamships; and officers and members of the crew were subjected to a brief oral examination. Olson's statement was to the effect that it was unusually foggy and that the blowing of fog whistles all about him and the sirens on the north side of the gate confused him. Chief Officer A. Sundall and Second Mate Andy Carlson had little to add to this statement. They said the vessel was proceeding at slow speed when the crash came. Bulger set the formal hearing for 1:30 p.m. tomorrow, at which time the officers and crew will be given a thorough examination. Official proceedings were rendered as brief as possible yesterday in order to give the crew a chance to rest and recover from their experience. The possibility of salvaging the was discussed at length yesterday by Captain Olson, representatives of the owners and Leeb Curtis of Pillsbury & Curtis, local salvage agents. Olson was pessimistic, believing the vessel doomed.--EXPERT DUE AT WRECK--An expert from the firm of Merhit, Chapman & Scott of Los Angeles, is scheduled to arrive today to view the wreck and pass on the chances of salvage. The Coos Bay is valued at $450,000. A resolution was adopted yesterday by the Board of Supervisors commending "the bravery of the gallant life-saving crews" of the Fort Point, Point Bonita and Golden Gate life-saving stations. Strange, city autopsy surgeon, however, gave it as his opinion that the man was drowned and the bones were broken by beating against the rocks. "PERRIER--ANOTHER SUICIDE -- A man by the name of PERRIER, dealer in paper hangings on Clay street, San Francisco, committed suicide on Sunday by shooting himself in the head with a pistol. PERRIER was a native of Switzerland and about 57 years of age. The S.F. 'Bulletin' mentions the following as the history of deceased: "He came to this country from Australia in 1849, and, going into business, accumulated considerable property. About 6 months ago, however, having become involved and met with bad success in business, he failed, and his store was levied upon and sold by the sheriff. Since that time he suffered from great depression of spirits. His wife, an accomplished lady, endeavored to retrieve the affairs of the house, and endeavored to get along by teaching pupils on the piano, and also by acting as a nurse in whatever respectable families she could find employment. On Thursday last she was called on to attend a sick acquaintance, and did not return to her house until the following day, when she found Mr. PERRIER very much depressed and partially intoxicated. The furniture of the house was in great confusion, and everything in disorder. Seeing this, she remarked that she would not go out nursing any more, but remain at home and keep things at rights. Her husband acquiesced, and Mrs. PERRIER then commenced arranging the furniture and putting the house in order. In doing so, she went temporarily outside the house, when she heard the report of a pistol, and upon entering the room where she had left her husband, found him stretched upon the floor in the last struggles of death. Blood was streaming from his mouth, and by his side lay a navy-sized revolving pistol. He died in a few minutes afterwards." Source: Stockton Daily Argus, 29 July 1857. Transcribed by Dee.

"PETERSON--THE LATE SAN FRANCISCO TRAGEDY -- The 'Chronicle' gives the following particulars of the PETERSON murder and suicide. It appears that the murdered woman was the 2nd wife of the murderer, the 1st having also obtained a divorce. Mrs. PETERSON had commenced action against her husband for a divorce on the ground of extreme cruelty, and yesterday afternoon she came to the city from her home on 27th street, near Howard, intending to meet her husband here and talk with him concerning the divorce, but as he did not meet her as agreed, she started back again on the Howard street cars. It is believed that PETERSON also came to the city and bought the knife with which he accomplished the terrible deed, reaching the place where he killed his wife before she arrived. Knowing she would have to pass over a small bridge which spans a creek there running across a narrow lane, he waited until she had alighted from the cars, and advanced to within a few feet of him, when he sprang upon her with the knife, and, notwithstanding her cries and entreaties, stabbed her 6 times in various portions of her body. One of the wounds penetrated the heart and she fell to the ground, expiring almost instantly. As soon as he had murdered his wife PETERSON ran off about 100 yards from the spot and stabbed himself 3 times in the left breast, the knife entering the heart. When PETERSON commenced stabbing his wife an express man was about crossing the bridge and was quite near, but terrified by the murderous expression of his countenance he turned and fled. Several young men and boys were in the vicinity at the time and saw the beginning of the stabbing, but ran away like frightened sheep. Charles PETERSON came here as a sailor on board a merchant vessel in the year 1859. He was a Swede, and like most of his countrymen, was industrious. He had left a wife in one of the Eastern cities -- Boston or Lowell -- and immediately upon his arrival here set to work to accumulate sufficient money to pay her passage to California. He succeeded in his efforts, sent for his wife, and she came. He continued to work hard, treated her well and supported her in comfort. But the seducer came into the orbit of PETERSON's married life and ere long estranged the heart of his wife, so that she left her husband's home, and not content with taking away all that properly belonged to her, carried off even the joint household furniture. His home was broken up, he cared no longer to remain steadily at work, and soon afterward joined T.J.L. SMILEY in his expedition to recover the treasure from the wreck of the Golden Gate. He returned to this city with a little money, and having ascertained beyond a doubt that his wife had been unfaithful to him, he then obtained a divorce from her. To illustrate the character of the man, however, we may mention that, even after her conduct toward him, meeting her in the street almost in rags, he spent 2 or 3 hundred dollars in providing her with decent clothing and other necessaries and comforts. With the remainder of his money he went into the express business, doing the carrying for the Sailors' Home, on Battery street, and invested in some lots of land in the neighborhood of 27th street. Subsequently he left the service of the Sailors' Home and took his stand with his wagon, opposite the Alameda ferry, on Davis street. He left that and went into the grocery business, having in the meantime married the woman whom he has now murdered." Source: Stockton Daily Independent, 24 Apr 1871. Transcribed by Dee.

"PETERSON--Dispatch from San Francisco, April 19 -- This evening a man named PETERSON, keeper of a grocery store at the corner of 26th and Howard streets, was found lying dead in a room adjoining the grocery with a knife in his hand and his wife dead beside him. He appears to have first killed her and then himself. Both were terribly cut and mangled and were fairly swimming in blood. They had lived happily enough, so far as known, though he is reported to have been drinking hard of late. The fatal affair was not witnessed by any, consequently the full facts can never be known." "PETERSON--Dispatch from San Francisco, April 21 --An immense number of people today visited the scene of the PETERSON tragedy, near Bernal Heights, and there is a constant rush of morbid sight-seekers to Lockhart's undertaking rooms on Market street, where the bodies await the action of the Coroner. It is uncertain when an investigation will be held. The corpse of the murdered woman dressed with exquisite taste in a robe of fine silk material, with the insignia of the Catholic faith around and upon it, lying in state as it were in the rear room of the establishment and some 30 women and nearly as many men kneeling or sitting around it, while others are coming and going all the time. The scene is a remarkable and striking one, though a painful one to witness." Source: Stockton Daily Independent, 21 April 1871. Transcribed by Dee.

"PEYRAN--THE LATEST TRAGEDIES--No Clue Yet to the Murderer of Old Philip PEYRAN--A Suspect in Jail - The Police Believe That Mrs. FASSLER is Not Telling the Truth--It has been definitely settled that the charred body which was found in the ruins of John OLSEN's dwelling on Sixteenth street - an account of the burning of which was published in Saturday's Record-Union - was that of Philip PEYRAN. It was believed at first that John OLSEN was the victim, but that gentleman has been found alive and well. It appears that when he went away OLSEN left the house in charge of PEYRAN and requested him to sleep there. IT WAS MURDER. That PEYRAN was foully murdered before the house was fired there seems to be little doubt. The police are working diligently on the matter, and hope to be able to unravel the mystery. Officer SNOOK arrested a man named MURRAY during the fire on suspicion of being an incendiary. It was not known at the time that a human life had been lost. MURRAY had been acting rather strangely around the house, getting in the way of the firemen and trying to impede them in their work. He made conflicting statements to the officer, and it was decided to lock him up. THE VICTIM. Philip PEYRAN, the victim of this latest murder, was 64 years of age, and was well known in this city. He owned an express wagon which for a long while has stood at K and Eighth streets. Some years ago his wife, a well-known saleslady in different local stores, procured a divorce from him. He was the father of Miss Belle PEYRAN, a teacher in the Sacramento Public schools, and Charles and Philip PEYRAN, Jr. The sons, who are grown men, live, one in the State of Washington and the other in San Francisco. THE AUTOPSY. City Physician C.B. NICHOLS performed an autopsy yesterday afternoon on the remains of the unfortunate Mr. PEYRAN. The fracture in the skull, the doctor says, was undoubtedly made with a hammer or some blunt instrument. In his opinion PEYRAN was murdered before the house was fired - probably a couple of hours before. This, he says, is evident for several reasons. The large quantity of blood that was found where the body lay proves conclusively that PEYRAN was not injured during the fire, for in that case there would have been no blood visible. Besides this no heavy timbers had fallen from the roof during the fire, and, more than that, there were no timbers in the building heavy enough to have made such a wound by falling upon PEYRAN." "PEYSER--DEATH OF SAMUEL PEYSER--The city papers bring information of the death, in San Francisco, on the 14th instant, of Samuel PEYSER, a former well-known and pioneer resident of Hone Lake valley. Mr. PEYSER will be remembered by all the oldest residents of this section, as he was for many years engaged in business of various kinds among them. In the absence of definite data, it may be said that he came into this valley with his family in the middle sixties and kept a store in Milford for sometime, afterwards removing to Susanville, where he engaged in merchandizing. He next engaged in the hotel business and under the conduct and control of Mrs. PEYSER and himself, the old Stewart House on the corner of Main and Gay Streets became noted as a model interior hotel. Being dissatisfied, Mr. PEYSER removed to Sierra Valley for a few years, returning again to Susanville and again resuming charge of the Stewart House. In 1888 or '89, he removed finally from Susanville and went to Lakeview, Oregon, where he engaged in the hotel business, until the death of Mrs. PEYSER several years ago, when he went to Oakland to reside. Mr. PEYSER was one of the charter members of Silver Star Lodge No 135, I.O.O.F., of Susanville. His sons, Dave and Abe, and his daughter, Mrs. A. BIEBER, of Lakeview, survive him. "PORTER--In Hollister, Aug. 25, Dr. Geo. C. PORTER, a native of England, aged 52 years, 7 mos., 19 days. [The Final Summons -- Last Friday, in the early hours of evening, Dr. Geo. C. PORTER, a man who occupied a high position as a physician and citizen, was cut down by death. He was a man of positive character, strong purpose and untiring perseverance, yet kind, considerate and exceedingly charitable... Dr. PORTER had been lying dangerously ill at his ranch in Grass Valley, where he had gone for rest early in the summer for the past 2 months. A week before his death, realizing that the end was near, he requested to be brought to his home in this city, where the final summons came...He was born in England, January 6th, 1853. After he was graduated from school, desiring to become a druggist, he was apprenticed to an apothecary in his native city, the apprenticeship to last 7 years. Becoming convinced that the man for whom he was working was not treating him fairly, he decided to come to America. As he was working for his board and clothes, he had no money, but finally managing to borrow enough to pay his passage steerage, he set sail, arriving in New York without a dollar. The desire to become a druggist was still strong within him. He worked and saved until he succeeded in getting enough money together to take through the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy. After working at his profession in the east a few years, he went to South America to try his fortune and finally decided to come to California, arriving in San Francisco in 1877. In 1881 he came to Hollister engaging in the drug business until 1890. In that year he disposed of his business to attend medical college in Philadelphia, returning here immediately after his graduation. His rise in his profession was rapid and marked...The funeral was held from his late residence on Monterey street, Sunday afternoon and was largely attended. The body was taken to the Cypress Lawn cemetery, Monday morning, and was cremated.]" Source: The Free Lance (Hollister, San Benito Co), 1 Sept 1905. Transcribed by Dee.

ASPHYXIATION ROUTE--Not a Very Definite Establishment of Her Identity---The Letters of Inquiry. A few days ago an account of a newly married couple being asphyxiated appeared in the San Francisco dailies, and accompanying it were the following death notices: In this city, December 30, 1894, Mary, beloved wife of the late John SMITH, and daughter of Nicholas POWERS, and sister of Alice and Jennie POWERS, a native of Pennsylvania, aged 22 years. In this city, December 30, 1894, John, beloved husband of the late Mary SMITH, a native of Ireland, aged 28 years. A lady who resides in San Francisco wrote to her father, a well-known resident of this city, informing him that the woman who was the victim of the deadly gas burner was the daughter of Nicholas POWERS who worked at the Buckeye Mills for a number of years, and had been married to Henry FARENKAM, for a number of years employed in the Kimball stable. An "Appeal" reporter tried to locate FARENKAM yesterday but was informed that he has not resided in this city for some time, but had been in town the early part of the week. Those who are intimately acquainted with FARENKAM stated that he had never been divorced from Mary Ann, and that there must be some mistake, as she was a native of Marysville, not of Pennsylvania, as stated in the death notice. Her father's name is correctly stated as are also the names of her two sisters, and her age is about correct. About a month ago the unfortunate young woman wrote to a friend in this city to ascertain if Henry had any money and if he still owned an interest in the stallion, but she never said a word about being divorced or having been married again. Henry and his wife did not lead a very happy life as he got into trouble with her several times when she resided in the Fourth Ward. Until FARENKAM comes to town again it will be impossible to ascertain if he knows anything about the divorce proceedings having been instituted, or if he was aware that his wife was married again. A well known resident of this city informed an APPEAL reporter last night that Mary Ann POWERS was born in Pennsylvania and that she came to this city with her mother after her father, Nicholas POWERS, had obtained employment. Her sisters, he stated, were all born in this city. He knew nothing, however, about her being divorced from FARENKAM." Source: Marysville Daily Appeal, 4 Jan 1895, p.1. "PURDY--THE DEATH OF EDWIN B. PURDY.—The funeral of Edwin B. PURDY, a member of Young America Engine Co. No. 13, and an ex-member of the California Legislature, who died on the 5th inst., --In this city, took place yesterday from the Pine street Church, and was largely attended. The deceased was a native of Westchester county, New York, and a man well known and highly respected. He was a gentleman who unobtrusive disposition kept him in a less conspicuous position that his merits deserved. He came to California in the early part of '49. In 1854, he was a member of the Legislature from this city elected to oppose the extension of the "city front" and well did he sustain the views of his constituents. No member was more active, judicious and efficient in promoting the interests of the city and State on that highly important question. In his public and private relations, he manifested an integrity of character and purity of purpose which endeared him to all good citizens who knew him. About two years ago he visited his native place, and deeded his entire funds in providing for the comfort of his parents. His mother is yet living, and if this notice should ever reach her eye, it will be some solace, in her bereavement, to learn that her son was attended to the grave by numerous friends, male and female, who sincerely felt that a worthy man had departed."
