Qrytext: Earnest Flae MANSFIELD - November 1912 Tuesday evening Death entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. MANSFIELD and took from them their beloved son, Earnest, who had been in failing health for the past three months. Death came as a result of a complication of diseases that led up tp Bright's Disease. Earnest was born in Crescent City 7 years, four months and 9 days ago, and up to the time of his death, with the exception of one year spent in Southern Oregon, had known no home but that one in this city. Until that fatal day last August when Death stamped him a victim, there was no brighter nor loving little boy in Crescent City. He had just started his second year in school and his fond parents were proud of the future that his work bespoke for him. Today his place in a poppy home will be made forever vacant, and there is no human loss that makes a home so desolated as the losing of a child. We met the little fellow but a short time ago when he was being hauled down the street in a go-cart by his father. He was at that time thought to be improving, and, in fact, out of danger, but the improvement was but temporary. The funeral services will be held today at 2 p.m. at the family residence on Ninth street. The Argus extends the sincere sympathy of a host of sorrowing friends to the parents and other relatives in their great loss.

SURNAMES: BERRY, JONES, BRAY, MOORE

ObitText: Newspaper Obituary for Rebecca Elizabeth MOORE BRAY b. Aug. 31, 1862, Wisconsin or Michigan, d. Dec. 20. 1896, Crescent City. (Name of newspaper unknown, probably Del Norte Record) Died. Rebecca Elizabeth BRAY. Rebecca E. BRAY, wife of R.D. BRAY, died suddenly last Sunday night, December 20th, at 11 o'clock, at their home on 6th and K streets in Crescent City. She was seated by the stove in the sitting room at the time talking with her husband, when suddenly she called in agonized tones for water. Her husband quickly brought her a drink. She took one swallow and fell to the floor unconscious. Mr. BRAY supposing that she had fainted, lifted her from the floor and placing her upon a couch attempted to restore her to consciousness. His efforts proved unavailing. Thoroughly alarmed he hurried to a neighbor's for assistance and sent a messenger for a physician. Returning home with kind neighbors every effort was made to restore the unfortunate woman to consciousness, but it soon became apparent that she was beyond human aid. The doctor upon his arrival soon confirmed their terrible fears. Death had been instantaneous. Ever since the birth of their last child, something over a year ago, Mrs. BRAY had been in feeble health, and during the past month had complained of illness quite frequently, but on the day of her death she seemed greatly improved, and on that very afternoon had said to her sisters, Miss MOORE and Mrs. William HAMILTON, who visited her, that she felt very much better. At five o'clock they left her in the best of spirits, and went to their homes. She attended to her usual duties after her sisters left and not once during the whole evening, up to the time of her death, did she complain of pain or unusual illness. Her sudden death has proven a terrible blow to the bereaved husband, and in this his hour of grief the deepest sympathy of the community goes out to him and to the motherless little ones. Rebecca Elizabeth BRAY was a daughter of W.H. and Priscilla MOORE, both deceased, who came to Del Norte in 1874 and resided here up to the time of their deaths. She was born in Michigan a little over 34 years ago and was one of a family of five children. In 1874 she came with her parents to Del Norte and in the fall of 1882 was married to R.D. BRAY, engineer in the mills of Hobbs, Wall & Co. in this place. Five children, the fruits of that union, survive her. The youngest is but a babe in arms. Besides husband and children, Mrs. BRAY leaves two sisters, Miss Jessie MOORE and Mrs. Wm. HAMILTON of Crescent City, and three brothers, one of whom, Dale MOORE, resides in Crescent City. G.J. MOORE, another brother, lives in Eureka, and there is a third brother in Michigan - Ed. MOORE. The funeral took place from the Methodist Church at 3 P.M. Wednesday. The church was filled to overflowing with sympathizing friends. Rev. C.F. COY, the pastor, delivered an impressive sermon, and held out to the bereaved ones the hope that beyond the grave through the mercy of Him who died for men they might be reunited with the loved one whom they mourned if they would but believe. A choir feelingly rendered some appropriate selections, and the friends of the deceased having taken one last look at her face, the march to the grave in Odd Fellows cemetery was taken up. There, the mourning friends of her girlhood and womanhood gathered round, all that was mortal of Rebecca Elizabeth BRAY was committed to the dust. The deceased was a member of Rebekah Lodge, No. 96, and the members of that order attended her funeral in a body.

ObitText: (Obituary for Maria R. VAUGHAN JONES, b. dec. 14, 1837, Peoria, IL; d. June 6, 1926, Crescent City, Del Norte County, CA. Date and source unknown, probably Del Norte Triplicate. Transcribed verbatim) FALL FATAL FOR OLDEST SETTLER Mariah Vaughn JONES was born in Peoria, Ill. December 14, 1837, and departed this life June the 6th, 1926, aged 88 years, 5 months, and 22 days. In 1852, she with her parents, in company with a number of families from Illinois, crossed the plains by ox team and settled near Oregon City, Oregon Among those making up the caravan was a young man of sterling worth, with whom she became intimately acquainted on the long journey across the prairie, and the boy and girl friendship thus begun blossomed into a deeper affection that carried them to the altar in the year following, and on September 25th, 1853, Miss Maria VAUGHAN became the girl bride of Martin Van Buren JONES. Mr. and Mrs. JONES removed from Oregon to Crescent City immediately following their marriage in the fall of 1853, and were among the first settlers of this region. Conditions in and around Crescent City were such, that less sturdy stock than that from which these youthful pioneers were sprung, would have been discouraged and returned home to their folks, but not so with these young trail blazers. Though surrounded by an appalling wilderness in which creatures of the wild still predominated, and where the Indian was little better than a savage, they stayed to hue out of this primeval forest a home for themselves, and to lay the foundations for a civilization that was destined to bless all future generations. Mr. and Mrs. JONES, union was blessed with eight children, five boys and three girls, all of whom were born in Crescent City, and all survive their mother except two older boys, Charles and Cyrus, who with their father preceeded her to the better land several years ago. To add to the trials and hardships of her already burdened life, she was left with this large growing family to care and provide for alone -- Mr. JONES being taken from her in 1885, -- but as all who knew her can attest, she proved equal to the task, and has given to the world a family that is spoken of with honor wherever they have been known. Mrs. JONES had been in poor health a long while, and through her children have importuned her to give up her little home up on H Street and come and make her home with them where she could be cared for in her declining years, she has persistantly refused, and would not even allow any of them to stay with her, fearing to be a burden upon them. The independence that was forded upon her at the death of her dear husband, dominated her mind in all her later life. She was happiest that way, and though her dear daughter, Mrs. ELLSWORTH kept constant watch, and stood ready to provide very care, and to supply every need, yet knowing her mother's disposition and what she would like most, she did not seek to break down those characteristics that had been woven into her nature by those earlier years of self reliance, but wisely refrained from any show of ministry that would cause Grandma to feel that she was a burden in any way. Last Saturday morning, while making her way from her bed to the kitchen using a chair to steady her tottering steps, she fell and dislocated her hip. Finding it impossible to relocate the bone with out the use of anasthetics they were applied and while under their influence she slipped away from us. She leaves three sons, Quincy, Martin and Walter, and three daughters, Mrs. Clara HENDERSON of Oregon, Emma ELLSWORTH of this City, and Dolly RIDGLEY of Seattle Washington, besides numerous grandchildren, one brother, Stuart VAUGHAN of McMinnville, Oregon, and a host of relatives and friends bereaved by her loss. Mrs. JONES was a great-great grandmother, being survived by several great-great grandchildren.

ObitText: The funeral service of Darius Maples CASE, was held at the Dodge Inn, at 2 p.m. April 24th, conducted by A.F.W. WALTERS. A large concourse of relatives, friends and neighbors being present and many floral pieces spoke in the high esteem of the deceased. The Scripture of Revelations 2:10 was taken as a foundation of the funeral address. In illustration of the life Darius Maples CASE, faithfulness, to life's great responsibilities was truly exemplified, a trustworthy servant indeed. Born in Penn. Dec. 30, 1840, moved to Iowa, where he met Mrs. Elizabeth TAYLOR to whom he was happily married, more than fifty years ago. A resident of Iowa nearly all his life, till two years ago last Oct. when he came to Crescent City. He leaves to cherish his memory, a dearly devoted widow and one son, Elwin CASE, whom most of the citizens know, besides one brother in Indiana, and one sister in Iowa. In the past D. M. CASE was a member of the Baptist Church and while he was in his late years not identified with any church, yet he could say that his faith was in Christ, as the Saviour of our World. It was last Christmas that he replighted his marriage vow on the occasion of his Golden Wedding; it was indeed a beautiful sight to have the honor of seeing him delight in that event, surrounded by so many and close friends; his indeed was the faithfulness that honors and contributes to the divine ideal of the home, that makes a noble citizenship.
