PREFACE

Inscriptions from markers in twenty cemeteries of San Joaquin County have been copied on the following pages. Another volume will complete the record.

No record after 1920 in cemeteries now being used in this county has been copied here other than those appearing on a marker with earlier records.* All inscriptions in small cemeteries and abandoned cemeteries have been copied.

Earliest graves had wooden markers---long since gone. When headstones became available, residents who had families here set up stone markers. Every effort has been made to interpret correctly the names and dates on these stones.

The old cemeteries are disappearing fast. That those whose forebears found a final resting place in this county may find this record of interest, is the hope of those who have traveled the county, searched for the graveyards, copied markers, and compiled this book.

*Death records have been required by California since July 1, 1905, and are kept in the State Bureau of Vital Statistics.

DRAIS FAMILY CEMETERY

The old Drais Family cemetery is located about one-half mile west of Farmington, off Farmington Road on the Drais farm. The cemetery was started in the 1850's, on land donated for the purpose, by Madison J. Drais. At this point of the Drais farm was the site of an old stage coach stopover. It was the main road from Stockton to Sonora and Copperopolis. The cemetery was used by others also, and is no longer in use. In 1912 some of the graves were moved to the Farmington Cemetery.

KIRK FAMILY CEMETERY

The Kirk Family Cemetery is located about four miles east of Bellota and about a mile south on the Shelley Road, on the Kirk Land Grant. John William Kirk came from Giles County, Virginia, in 1847, returned to Virginia, and in 1848 brought his family to California. Four Kirk family slaves were given their freedom in Virginia, but wanted to come with the family, so came as free men, with the wagon train. They are buried in the family plot, above the family section, and the graves are marked with iron pegs. The cemetery is still in use.

LOCKE FAMILY CEMETERY

The Locke Family Cemetery is located on the old family farm, about a mile from the little town of Lockeford, which was named for Dr. Dean Jewett Locke. Dr. Locke came to California in 1849, returned to Boston in 1855, married and then came back to California, where he remained until his death in 1887. Dr. and Mrs. Locke had 13 children, whose descendants still call Lockeford "home". On a tall monument in the center of the family plot, is the following inscription:

Dean Jewett Locke
 1823-1887
 Founder of Lockeford
 1849
 Della M. Locke
 1836-1923
 1855

On the sides of the monument is left room for all the children's names, when the last one dies. In the plot are the following graves. The entire plot is inclosed by a high fence.

LOCKEFORD PROTESTANT CEMETERY

Lockeford Protestant Cemetery, situated at the junction of Tretheway and Brandt roads just west of Lockeford. The cemetery was started in 1862, the land deeded to Methodist Church by David J. Staples. It was on the main road from Stockton to Sacramento in the early days. Mr. Staples ran a ferry across the Mokelumne River. There is a brick church on the premises, but has not been used as a church since 1867, but used for funerals some time longer. The cemetery is divided into two parts, one is Methodist the other is I. O. O. F. Just east of this cemetery is the Catholic Cemetery.
